Citadel Law Corporation Disclosure Agreement

1. Citadel Law Corporation: Citadel Law Corporation, (hereafter, "Citadel Law") is an independent estate planning law firm. Attorneys at Citadel Law counsel each client regarding all of the estate planning options which are appropriate for that client and the pros and cons of each option. Citadel Law's attorneys also design and draft each estate plan. Citadel Law recognizes that a living trust may or may not be an integral part of each client's estate plan and that not everyone should have a living trust. Citadel Law's attorneys are responsible for determining whether or not a client needs a living trust, which type of living trust, if any, would be most appropriate for the client, and which estate planning techniques should be used to best accomplish each client's objectives. Citadel Law does not rely on any particular client or firm for employment. For married couples, if the attorneys at Citadel determine that representing both spouses would constitute a conflict in interest, then Citadel may elect to represent only one spouse, and require that the other find independent legal counsel.

2. Attorney Consultations and Telephonic Consultations: Each client has the right to personally visit with and consult directly with an attorney at Citadel Law at any time concerning the creation or maintenance of their living trust or estate plan. Unless the client specifically requests an appointment to personally visit with an attorney, by signing this agreement the client hereby requests and authorizes an attorney at Citadel Law to telephone the client at his or her home or place of business for purposes of conveniently answering the client's questions, discussing relevant issues related to the client's estate plan, and gathering, providing and verifying information which the client, the attorney or the CCEP believes is important and necessary for the proper completion of the client's living trust and estate plan.

3. Certified Citadel Estate Planner (CCEP) Participation: A CCEP is a specially trained paralegal who has been instructed by and works under the supervision of the attorneys at Citadel. A CCEP does not engage in the practice of law, but does gather copies of grant deeds, tax bills, existing trusts or wills, tax returns, corporation, LLC or business records, insurance policies, retirement plans, or other family, business and financial data necessary for the proper completion of a client's estate plan. A CCEP may also discuss the general advantages of proper estate planning. The client hereby authorizes the CCEP to gather any information necessary for the proper completion of the estate plan. Each client has the right to meet personally with an attorney regarding any issue which affects his or her estate plan. However, unless the client specifically requests to meet with an attorney, the client hereby requests and authorizes the CCEP to deliver and notarize the living trust, grant deeds or other estate planning documents which have been prepared by the attorney.

4. Disclosure and Use of Personal and Financial Client Information: Citadel Law recognizes the importance of privacy and under the law of attorney-client privilege cannot disclose any of the client's personal or financial information to any person other than the Citadel attorneys or the client's CCEP paralegal. The client also authorizes the CCEP or Citadel Law to use the client's personal and/or financial information to prepare estate planning documents, presentations or illustrations for the client concerning the client's overall estate plan. Citadel Law will not disclose any confidential information to a client's family members or other third parties without the client's permission. Client agrees to provide Citadel Law and the CCEP with any information necessary for the proper completion of the estate plan and holds Citadel Law and the CCEP harmless for any damages that may result from the client's failure to accurately or completely provide such information. Client understands that it is client's responsibility to transfer assets into his or her living trust and hereby holds Citadel Law harmless for any damages relating to the client's failure to properly fund his or her trust.

5. Authorization for Attorney Fees and Paralegal Fees: The client understands that the total fee for a living trust includes the attorney's legal fee as well as established compensation for the paralegal. The client hereby requests and authorizes Citadel Law to pay a paralegal fee directly to the CCEP for the time, expense and effort that the CCEP expends in gathering or delivering information or documentation necessary to or prepared by the attorneys at Citadel Law for the completion of the client's living trust or estate plan. The client understands that the CCEP's paralegal fee may be construed as a conflict of interest, but by signing this agreement the client expressly authorizes the CCEP to receive compensation as a paralegal from Citadel Law.

6. Free Document Review Period: From the time a client's documents are signed and delivered the client has a 30-day period to request any changes or corrections at no charge. Document revisions after 30-days may require an amendment, and will be completed for a fee.

7. Cancellation and Refund Policy: Notification of cancellation of requested legal services received within three (3) days of the receipt of a signed retainer agreement will result in a full refund of the deposit. No refunds will be given after the three (3) day cancellation period. The client further understands that he or she shall be liable for the remaining balance of the requested legal services if notification of cancellation is received after the three (3) day cancellation period.
